

State v. Curcio, 191 Conn. 27 (1983)

An Illustrative, Non-exhaustive List of Leading Cases Applying the Curcio
Doctrine

Prepared by Daniel J. Klau
Partner
Pepe & Hazard LLP

1. Abreu v. Leone, 291 Conn. 332 (2009) (motion to quash/protective order re: discovery)
2. Lougee v. Grinnell, 216 Conn. 483 (1990) (denial of motion to quash subpoena issued in Connecticut in connection with Texas litigation)
3. Shay v. Rossi, 253 Conn. 134 (2000), overruled in part by Miller v. Egan, 265 Conn. 301 (2003) (sovereign immunity)
4. Hopkins v. O'Connor, 282 Conn. 821 (2007) (absolute immunity defense of police officer)
5. Chadha v. Charlotte Hungerford Hospital, 272 Conn. 776 (2005) (order imposed monetary sanctions on attorney for pleading in bad faith)
6. State v. Jenkins, 288 Conn. 610 (2008) (decision denying criminal defendant's right to competency hearing)
7. State v. Garcia, 233 Conn. 44 (1995), overruled on other grounds by State v. Jacobs, 265 Conn. 396 (2003) (order requiring defendant to be involuntarily medicated in order to restore competency to stand trial)
8. State v. Tate, 256 Conn. 263 (2001) (double jeopardy)
9. Convalescent Center of Bloomfield, Inc. v. Dept. of Income Maintenance, 208 Conn. 187 (1988) (collateral estoppel and res judicata)
10. Madigan v. Madigan, 224 Conn. 749 (1993) (temporary order of custody)
11. Sweeney v. Sweeney, 271 Conn. 193 (2004) (temporary order granting wife's motion to enroll child in parochial school over objection of husband)
12. Hiss v. Hiss, 135 Conn. 333 (1949) (temporary order of support)
13. In re Shamika F., 256 Conn. 383 (2001)